

Lady Brownie

Not to be seen by the "normal" doesn't shake her lifestyle concept Purity and love is what makes her such unique and us feel what truth is
She is not tall but thinks a lot not about fame or her haircut
But about what to see behind our facades
To get one winking eye from her is like an optical love letter
Which is not to be read but to be felt

There is no searching is no pain, there's no normal no insane
Material luck no worthwhile goal like a cancer that someone steal
She's just found her inner home, not wise but knowing what to come
She's all that she doesn't seem to be

She's the one who isn't payed for love she spreads in every way She's the one who's satisfied by seeing a smile just for a little while Her eyes are closed but she sees a lot if a soul is cold if a heart is hot
If the truth is naked or if she wears a cap

There is no searching is no pain, there's no normal no insane
Material luck no worthwhile goal like a cancer that someone steal
She's just found her inner home, not wise but knowing what to come
She's all that she doesn't seem to be

She's the one who isn't real for those who see but just can't feel She's the one who sets a fire deep in your heart feel that burning desire
For what is real for what is pure, for what is love for what is cure
For what you need to be yourself behind your stupid facade
She shines through you like the morning light, one big feel without a sigh
She shows you a better life and you'll hope again...
